Orchard and her Gardevoir scouted the property until they caught Nikolai kissing his Gardevoir through the window, and moved to apprehend him. There was a brief battle, but Orchard's Gardevoir overpowered Nikolai's and the two were separated. Nikolai was given a 15 year sentence and Gyra was put under the care of a League Sanctuary. Nikolai's mating bond with his Gardevoir resulted in the League starting studies into the nature of Psychic mating bonds formed with humans, with Nikolai being designated "Subject One."

Impact

Nikolai's arrest had a profound impact on Lily Orchard. Orchard had previously believed any instance of Pokemon Abuse was one of force, and Nikolai was the first instance she had seen of a pair that seemed to genuinely be in love. However, Orchard concluded that despite their genuine feelings, the power dynamic between a trainer and Pokemon was simply too massive to overlook and a trainer has a responsibility to not exploit that, a sentiment she would eventually explain to Gardevoir when her Pokemon confessed to having romantic feelings for her.
